

Millions of Canadians rely on 32,000 local Insurance Brokers
for their peace of mind.

All across this vast and beautiful country, in thousands of communities in every province, the majority of Canadians depend on their local Insurance Broker for their insurance needs. And a good night's sleep.

By using a Broker, Canadians can rest assured that they are getting the very best coverage, tailored to their individual needs. A licensed Broker, unlike an insurance company or agent, can pick and choose from the great range of companies, policies and plans that are out there, and so deliver you the right coverage at the best price.

Insurance Brokers know their customers personally – living as they do in the same communities and neighbourhoods – and an expert, friendly face is a very good thing to have when choosing something which is so important to your family or business, but which can also be so confusing.

Brokers are always there to help with any insurance matter or problem, not just in helping you with the original choice. For instance, your Broker is on your side in the event of a claim, helping conclude a fair and prompt settlement with the insurance company, simplifying the whole process.

In all, a Broker doesn't sell you insurance:
a Broker buys insurance for you.

That's why so many millions of Canadians can sleep easy at night.
